Save over 50% on your next train ticket

Stop buying your train tickets at the station and start making massive savings and lots of loyalty points.

New website Redspottedhanky.com has made buying tickets online simple and stress free. The website allows you to search for times and fares quickly and easily, helping you to find great deals for all UK rail journeys and UK Train Operators. You won't get charged any booking or delivery fees (except for next day delivery) and can use your credit or debit card without being charged for the privilege (which gets a big thumbs up in our books!). What's more, every time you book tickets through Redspottedhanky.com you'll earn special loyalty points that can be used to knock money off the cost of future tickets.

On average Redspottedhanky customers save an incredible 51% compared with buying their tickets at the station on the day of travel. The website has also just launched a special corporate site for business travellers and companies making travel easier and cheaper for professionals on the go. You can find out more about that right here.

Save up to 90% on hearing aids

Pay less for the best at HearingDirect.com

HearingDirect.com is the website to go to for quality, state-of-the-art hearing aids. The average cost of buying a hearing aid on the high street is a pricey £1,100 per ear, but at HearingDirect.com you'll get up to 90% off - pretty incredible her?!

You can visit HearingDirect.com right now for a free online hearing check which will establish if you may benefit from a hearing aid. The hearing check is fast and simple to use and can be completed from the comfort of your own home. Give it a go today and then make the most of your amazing discounts.

Be Paid for your Opinion at PanelBase.net

You can make extra money just by sitting at your computer and filling out a few online surveys in your spare time.

There are websites that will pay you just for your opinions. You can make regular money, (probably around £20-30 a month) for very little effort. Every now and then you'll have the opportunity to win some amazing prizes.

There are plenty of online survey sites to choose from but one of our favourites is definitely PanelBase.net. Not only do they pay up to £10 per survey but there's also the chance to be entered into prize draws where you can win some really luxurious goodies.

Panelbase.net has also launched survey opportunities through mobiles (SMS and WAP) in which members are paid a 50p reward to answer a handful of questions via their mobiles – there is no charge to you for the phone call. Remember to create a separate email account just for this so that your main email account doesn't get inundated with spam.

NEXT STEP: Click on Panelbase

The logo for Panelbase.net features the word "Panelbase" in a bold, sans-serif font. "Panel" is in red, "base" is in orange, and ".net" is in grey. A small grey dot is positioned below the letter 'a' in "base".

Up to 75% off prescription glasses

Save a fortune online at Spex4Less.com

If you wear glasses you're no doubt well aware just how pricey frames and lenses can be. With the average high street pair costing over £140, they're an expensive necessity that lots of us just can't do without.

But at Spex4Less.com you can get the glasses you've always wanted for a fraction of what you'd normally pay on the high street. The website provides high quality prescription glasses, top brand designer glasses and specialist sports glasses at up to 75% off their usual high street price, PLUS they throw in lots of bonus goodies with each order.

All Spex4Less glasses come with FREE custom made prescription lenses, a FREE carry case and cleaning cloth, a FREE anti-scratch formula, a 12 month durability guarantee and a 100% money back guarantee.

FOR A RICHER LIFE

Save £££'s on Batteries

Use rechargeable batteries to save money and the planet.

They do cost a little more than normal ones on the initial purchase, and you need to buy a charger. But after that you will be quids-in.

For every throwaway battery a rechargeable one can be used around a thousand times so you can save hundreds of pounds in the long-run.

Make sure you go for a larger capacity battery (e.g. 2700 milliamp hours or mAh) as it won't need charging as often, and look on Amazon for some really good bargains.

If you're not keen on buying rechargeable batteries then go for the Battery Regenerator from Souvenir Cranwell. This great gadget restores the capacity of normal batteries (AA and AAA) by up to 90%, and can regenerate a battery up to 100 times!

SAVE £££'s on Car Costs

Great alternatives to owning a car.

If you're fed up with forking out for insurance, parking permits and maintenance then you can save money by using an on-demand rental service like Streetcar or Zipcar. These companies rent out cars and vans by the hour, day, week or month. Unlike a normal rental company, the cars and vans are located in residential areas, so all you've got to do is go online, find your nearest one and (with luck!) walk over to it within 10 minutes.

An hour's rental costs around £5, so you can use the car for running errands, going food shopping or any other quick task that you really need a car for.

When you're finished, you just park it back where it was – no need to pay for insurance, parking or road tax.

Supermarkets throw away around 5% of their food every day simply because it has past it's sell by date.

If you don't mind getting your hands dirty, have a go at being a 'Freegan' and dig deep into supermarket bins to get perfectly good food for absolutely nothing.

You may think it's unhygienic, but most of this food is pre-packaged and protected from any unsanitary substances.

Be wary of fish or meat products, but bread, cake, dry foods and many dairy products that are packaged can be quite safe to eat after their sell-by-dates.

Not all supermarkets have these bins and others may stop you delving into them.

But if you thrive on a challenge, have a go at Freeganism and you can get some great food without paying a penny.

Save Petrol by Being Smooth

Save on petrol – and help the planet – by changing the way you drive.

If you stop and start a lot, break suddenly and generally drive in a jerky way, you will be using more petrol than you need to.

A car consumes the most petrol when it accelerates, according to the law of physics (force equals mass times acceleration), but when it's moving it doesn't need much to keep going.

So by keeping your driving technique smooth and not braking all the time, you keep your speed without having to accelerate.

This is the most efficient way to save petrol giving you 10% - 20% more mileage, which means significant savings, given the price of petrol now.

33% OFF Rail Fares

Two out of every three Britons qualify for a railcard.

They cost £26 for the year. If you're 16-25, or a mature student, use the 16-25's Railcard and get a third off all rail fares across Britain.

If you're over 60, holiday any time you like with the Senior Railcard and receive a third off all standard and first class train fares across Britain.

For groups travelling with children make sure you have a Family and Friends Railcard. With it you can get 1/3 off your fare and as much as 60% off kids' fares for up to four kids.

The children don't even need to be relatives, so you could be travelling with your friends' children and still get the discount.

SAVE £100's on your Way to Work

By riding a bike to work instead of driving or using public transport you can save hundreds of pounds in petrol or train fares.

Not only that but you don't need to bother with that gym membership either.

It's also much better for the environment and you can even grab yourself a cheap second hand bike at police auction sites like Bumblebeeauctions or on eBay.

Cash Back For Late Trains

Claim what is rightfully yours!

Have the train companies compensate you for delays.

If your train arrives more than an hour late because of delays, you are entitled to a minimum of 20% on the cost of the ticket. This is usually paid in National Rail travel vouchers.

If trains are delayed by more than two hours you should try claiming for a full refund.

To make a claim you can either use a form obtained at the station, or one from the train on which the delay occurs.

Alternatively you can write your own letter of complaint to the appropriate service provider (Virgin, etc). Attach copies (not originals) of your tickets as proof of purchase.

If you have a travel or Oyster card make sure you check out the two websites below too.

Reduce your Food Bill Improve your Health

By cutting down on your meat intake you can lower both your cholesterol levels and your food bill.

There are oodles of great vegetarian alternatives to meat that will cost you much less and still taste fantastic (no, really!)

Beans and pulses are top nutrition, and dead good for bulking up a meal. They're also a Brucey bargain, and can be used to make yummy soups and curries.

Try the Love Food Hate Waste and eighth-day for loads of great recipes. If you can't live without meat then use your freezer more. Pick up meat that is marked down because it's near its sell-by date and freeze it for later.

Make money from competitions

Your chances are better than you might think!

We know what you're thinking, what's the point in entering competitions when your chances of winning are so slim? Well as the saying goes 'you gotta be in it to win it,' and your chances are often a lot better than you might have thought. There are lots of competitions out there that get surprisingly few entries, leaving the door wide open for you to swoop in and bag some serious prizes.

Prime Prizes is a great site to get started on, and has proven to be a real Moneymagpie favourite over the last few months. They have a fantastic range of goodies up for grabs and the entry process is nice and easy.

If you like the idea of trying your luck with online competitions we strongly recommend that you set up a separate email account. This will prevent your personal account from being flooded with competition related spam which can be very annoying!
